SMIK for 45 min.

Orienteering with migrating controls (SMIK) on a short (30min) or shortened (45min) course with mass start. To be specified. Controls will not physically migrate and can be punched outside the time slot defined in the timetable. The punching in the card will be automatically evaluated as valid only if it is punched in the correct time slot.

What is SMIK? - The SMIK is a race similar to a skorelauf, a type of orienteering in which the competitor's task is to run and punch as many controls as possible within the time limit plotted on the map, the order of the controls is not determined. In SMIK, the situation is made more difficult by the fact that the controls are not always in one place, but migrate. Their movement between checkpoints is governed by the timetable.

Punching system - Sportident - Control units set in contact mode
